

AIM HEALTH INSTITUTE PRIVACY POLICY

AIM Health Institute (“AIM”) is committed to providing users with a web experience that respects and protects personal privacy. Please note that we do not provide access to any patient information from this web site, nor do we collect or store any patient information. AIM does not sell, trade, or rent personal information to others.

AIM web pages may contain links to other websites owned by third parties as a convenience to the user. If a user decides to use these links, he or she will leave the AIM website. AIM is not responsible for the privacy practices or the content of such websites, and does not make any representations or endorsements about them.

In order to maintain effective privacy practices, AIM retains the right to update this policy without notice.

Updated 10/14/2014